CASE STUDY

AI-Powered Email Intake Automation

How we automated email classification, AI-drafted replies, and client tracking for a law firm.

100%

Emails Auto-Classified

Missed Enquiries

THE CHALLENGE

Emails were piling up. Responses were slipping through.

01 Inbox overload

Every email sat in one inbox with no labels, no sorting, and no priority. New enquiries looked the same as returning client messages.

02 Slow response times

The lawyer had to read, classify, and reply to every single email manually. Important enquiries from potential new clients waited hours or even days.

03 No client tracking

There was no system to track who had contacted the firm before, when they first reached out, or what area of law they needed help with.

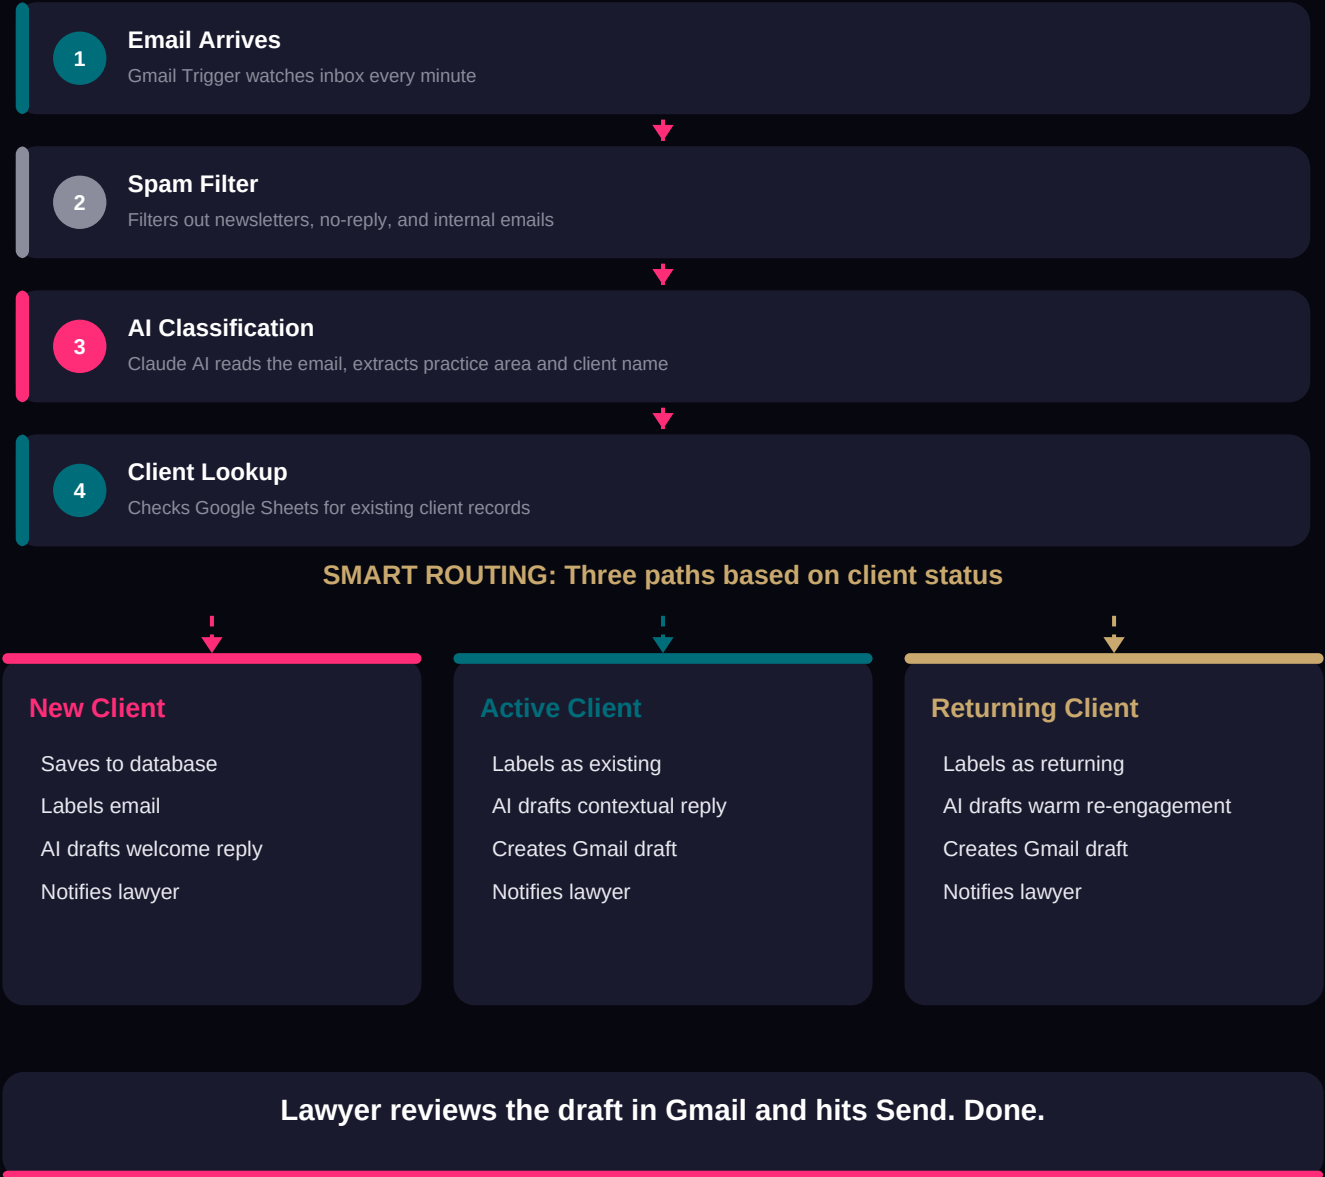

04 Missed opportunities

Without a fast response to new enquiries, potential clients moved on to other firms. Every slow reply was lost revenue.

THE SOLUTION

A fully automated email pipeline.

Every incoming email is now automatically filtered, classified by AI, checked against a client database, labelled, and responded to with an AI-drafted reply. The lawyer only needs to review and hit send.

What powers this system.

n8n

Workflow automation platform that connects all the moving parts

Gmail API

Triggers on new emails, adds labels, creates drafts, sends notifications

Claude AI (Anthropic)

Classifies emails by practice area and drafts professional replies

Google Sheets

Client contact database for tracking enquiries and history

THE RESULTS

What changed after launch.

Every email is classified and labelled automatically

No more guessing which emails are new enquiries vs existing clients.

AI drafts are ready for review in under 60 seconds

The lawyer opens Gmail and the reply is already sitting in Drafts.

New clients are logged to a database instantly

Name, email, practice area, and date are captured without any manual entry.

The lawyer gets notified immediately

An alert email goes out the moment a draft is ready, so nothing sits unread.

Zero enquiries missed

Every single email gets a response path. Nothing falls through the cracks.
